HAD TO RUN BEFORE GALE.

Sch. Independence II. Iced Up Badly in the Gulf.

WHOLE CREW FROST BITTEN.

Independence II. and Tattler Bring Big Herring Cargoes.

Two of the Newfoundland frozen herring fleet have arrived since last report, sch. Independence II. coming in yesterday afternoon and sch. Tattler beating up the harbor and coming to anchor during the night.

Both vessels bring large cargoes, having half frozen and half salt herring.

Capt. Joseph V. Cusick of sch. Independence II. reports a most severe passage to Cape Sable, and a most exasperating voyage since coming by that point, being five days from there to this port, meeting light head winds and whole days of calm. If this better part of the journey was summerlike, the first four days out from Bay of Islands were of sufficient severity to more than balance it.

The Independence II. started for home a week ago last Saturday and came out into the gulf with a smart leading breeze. Christmas day came in severely cold and with a heavy storm and the Independence scudded down the gulf before it like a frightened deer. The cold became intense and the vessel iced up badly, so badly that Capt. Cusick and his men say they never before saw so much ice on a vessel.

Everything, hull, deck and rigging were thickly incased and even the sails became stiff as boards where the ice formed on them.

Despite the below zero atmosphere which penetrated even their thick clothing all hands were obliged to be on deck and pound ice off the vessel to keep her in any degree manageable.

January 3

The gale continued to increase and Capt. Cusick wanted to take in some of his sail, but so tightly was everything frozen that it was impossible to get a sail to come down. To cut the haylards was the only way, but rather than do this Capt. Cusick kept his splendid craft off dead before it and ran out the storm. It was wicked running, however, the vessel being low in the water on account of the great amount of ice on her, and she fairly staggered on through the rough water. Great seas washed her deck and carried away part of her deckload, but without further damage the good craft ran it out.

Every man of the crew of the Independence II., including Capt. Cusick and Mate William Kelly, bear the marks of that severe night in the gulf in the shape of frost-bitten faces and hands. Some were quite badly frost bitten and especially so the mate, William Kelly, the whole right side of whose face was very badly frozen.

Capt. Bonia of sch. Tattler reports leaving Bay of Islands a week ago Monday. He had a rough passage with head winds as far as Cape Sable and then encountered light winds and calms the rest of the way home. The gale which the Independence II. encountered had spent its fury when the Tattler came out, so she escaped its severity. Capt. Bonia reports seeing no ice in the gulf.

Sch. Independence II. towed to Boston this morning to take out her cargo of frozen herring.

Sch. Tattler will go to New York with her cargo of frozen herring.

The Bay of Islands Western Star says that the Humber became frozen a week ago Friday night. Schs. Corsair and Atalanta left there Friday night for the Middle Arm and barely escaped being caught in the ice. The Western Star also says that a considerable quantity of slobice has formed in the Middle Arm and the indications are the bay will be frozen over early this season.

Sch. Maxine Elliott, Capt. Alden Geel, arrived this forenoon from Bay of Islands with a full fare of frozen herring. She will be towed immediately to Boston to take out her fare.

The first fares of frozen herring which sold to Boston this season brought $2.87 1-2 per hundred weight. It is understood that some fares have been sold to arrive at $2.50 per hundred weight.

FATHER OF THE FISHERIES.

Fishing Gazette's Eulogy on Late Capt. J. W. Collins.

The Fishing Gazette publishes the following well deserved eulogy on the late Capt. J. W. Collins:

"The death of Capt. Joseph W. Collins is an irreparable loss to the commercial fisheries. His position was unique: he had no peer; no man could have done more for the industry than he has. His name was associated with it the world over, it was the result of indefatigable efforts to familiarize himself with the needs of the fishermen, only obtained by constant application, hard work and energy. That he succeeded is acknowledged by all. He was 'The Father of the Fisheries,' a title well deserved. The position he occupied as chairman of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission at his death is evidence of the appreciation he was held in by citizens of the state, who recognized his practical experience, sterling worth, etc. His life was not free from trials and tribulations, yet through it all he preserved the calm demeanor of the man of force, etc., devoting his life to the work he had assumed and was carrying on successfully, not forgetting his domestic relations that required a large share of his attention; a devoted husband and father, a staunch friend, etc. We have nothing but pleasant recollections of our relations during the time he was a member of the staff of The Gazette. The world of fisheries has lost its best friend, a remarkable character, a man in every sense of the word, he has earned the rest that death has brought him."

SCH. SENATOR GARDNER HOME.

Capt. Nelson Reports Very Heavy Gale in the Gulf.

Hove To on Cashes During Blizzard of Tuesday Night.

Sch. Senator Gardner, Capt. Vincent Nelson, arrived this forenoon from Bay of Islands, N. F., with a full cargo of frozen herring. Capt. Nelson reports a hard passage and the worst kind of weather.

In company with nine others of the frozen herring fleet, the Senator Gardner left Bay of Islands a week ago Wednesday. The next day in the gulf they experienced a heavy north-westerly gale, the glass having fallen very rapidly. The storm was very severe in its intensity and it was bitter cold and the vessel iceed up considerably. The craft ran it out under bare poles without damage.

All along the Cape Shore light winds and the blackest kind of fog were encountered, and the Gardner emerged from this only to encounter the heavy blizzard of Tuesday and on that evening was obliged to heave to on Cashes to save her deck load. Capt. Nelson says that while the gale was not so heavy but what sail could be carried, it was a matter of prudence to heave to to save his barrels. The snow, however, was very thick.

The Gardner came out of it without damage and as soon as it abated the craft was headed for home and came along without damage.

Capt. Nelson reports that yesterday, he passed the sch. Kentucky off here, also bound home with a cargo of frozen herring. The Kentucky had evidently suffered in some of the gales, for her fore boom and jumbo boom were gone and it looked as though some of her deckload had been washed ashore.
